

$1's For $5's?

Blind, He Traps Money Changer

On the surface it would appear that 32-year-old Donald Ash, of 2380 Fourth st. SW, is the blind man.

Ash operates a lunch counter in the basement of City Hall established by the State Service to the Blind.

Richard Levin, 18, of 571 Oneida av., a temporary em-ploye of the city's Highway Department, has full vision. except that -- police say he is blind to his better nature. In Auto Agency St

LEVIN IS charged with larceny by trick. He gave $1 bills to the blind Ash, telling him they were five's, and taking the change, police said.

It was Ash who trapped and caught Levin, using marks that were like road signs to him but which Levin could not see—marks in Braille.

Both sides filed unfair lab the National Labor Relations a group of Summit County Mechanics Local 762.

Ash had been suspicious of Mechanics Local 762.

not see—marks in Braille.

Ash had been suspicious of the youth since the money trick was first pulled a month ago, became convinced when it was pulled again last week. He worked out his plan.

Levin was a more or less regular customer. Ash knew his voice. The former would wait around until there was no one else at the stand before offering the $1 as a $5.

When Levin came around Monday, Ash asked a detective friend to wait a short distance from the stand. He did. Levin offered a bill, Ash gave him the marked $1's — and the detective flashed his badge.

Mechanics Local 762.

The dealers also sent a petition to the NLRB calling for ics on whether they want the union to continue representing the dealers, said the union, in the unfair labor reactive charge, was accused frying to break up and destrive friend to wait a short distance from the stand. He did. Levin the first of the stand of the s

Mechanics File NLRI

Both sides filed unfair lab

Clipped By:

douglas15377 Thu, May 2, 2019

